1969 - 1970

We, the last senior class of Belvoir-Falkland High School, wish to unfold to the outside world the travels and adventures of the 1969-1970 school year. We have sought to perpetuate these memories as though we were stepping across the bridges of life. Many bridges have been crossed, and many remain to be traversed. We are now approaching the end of one of the most significant bridges—our high school years. It is our wish that each individual who encounters this memoir will find some measure of the knowledge and wisdom necessary to cross the future bridges of life.

Steps Across The Bridges Of Life

"The world is merely a bridge; ye are to pass over it,
and not to build your dwellings upon it."
Unwritten Sayings of Jesus

In Admiration . . .

Miss Linda Sue Elks

The decision as to whom to dedicate the 1969-70 Eagle was a difficult one indeed. However, we the seniors, have chosen the person for which we have the deepest respect and admiration. Although being with us for only two short years, each one of her students has become deeply devoted to her for the specific reason that she is deeply devoted to us. She has proven this measure of devotion by showing interest in classes, by sponsoring the senior class, and by supervising the girls' basketball team. She has proven her potential as a leader through her diligent work with the Eagle Staff. Under her leadership the past two Eagles have been the best in Belvoir-Falkland history. Because of such qualities the 1969-70 Eagle is proudly dedicated to Miss Linda Sue Elks.

A Message From Our Principal

Congratulations to the annual staff for their labor in preparing this book of perpetual memories of a happy and joyous school year. This book will serve as an unbreakable chain of cherished moments we shared together this year at Belvoir-Falkland High School.

You are living in a time when greater opportunities are available to everyone than at any other time in our nation's history. It is truly a great time to be alive. Educational opportunities for those who choose to better themselves are unlimited. We challenge you to avail yourself of these opportunities. Push yourself onward and upward to the height of your ability.

Let the theme of your life be love and service to mankind. Let love, which rules Heaven, rule your mind and heart. May your lives be fully enriched with God's blessings and guidance which will enable you to live a happier, healthier, and more productive life.

May best wishes for every success and happiness go to each member of the graduating class of 1970. We that have played an important part in molding your life will follow your careers and achievements with keen interest. We trust that our mutual cares, labors, and interests in your behalf have not been in vain. I'm glad I've touched shoulders with you.

Best Wishes and Kind Regards,

A. B. K. K.

High School Faculty

As we travel through life, our memories will often reflect hours spent in the hallowed classrooms of Belvoir-Falkland High School. Through these halls, we have crossed the bridge of immaturity as freshmen, the "know-it-all" stage as sophomores, the growing up period as juniors in receiving class rings and sponsoring the Jr.-Sr. prom, and, finally, to the responsibility of being the leaders of our school. In highest esteem for these teachers, our friends, we wish to express our thanks to those who have sacrificed their time and patience, who have worked by our sides, and who have laughed and cried with us through thick and thin. We have often heard that experience is the best teacher. These instructors have that ingredient which we lack. They have the experience needed to see us through high school and to aid us in becoming adults. From their experiences, they have taught us to avoid their mistakes and have made our bridges easier to cross.

Miss Judy Scott 1968 - 69 Queen

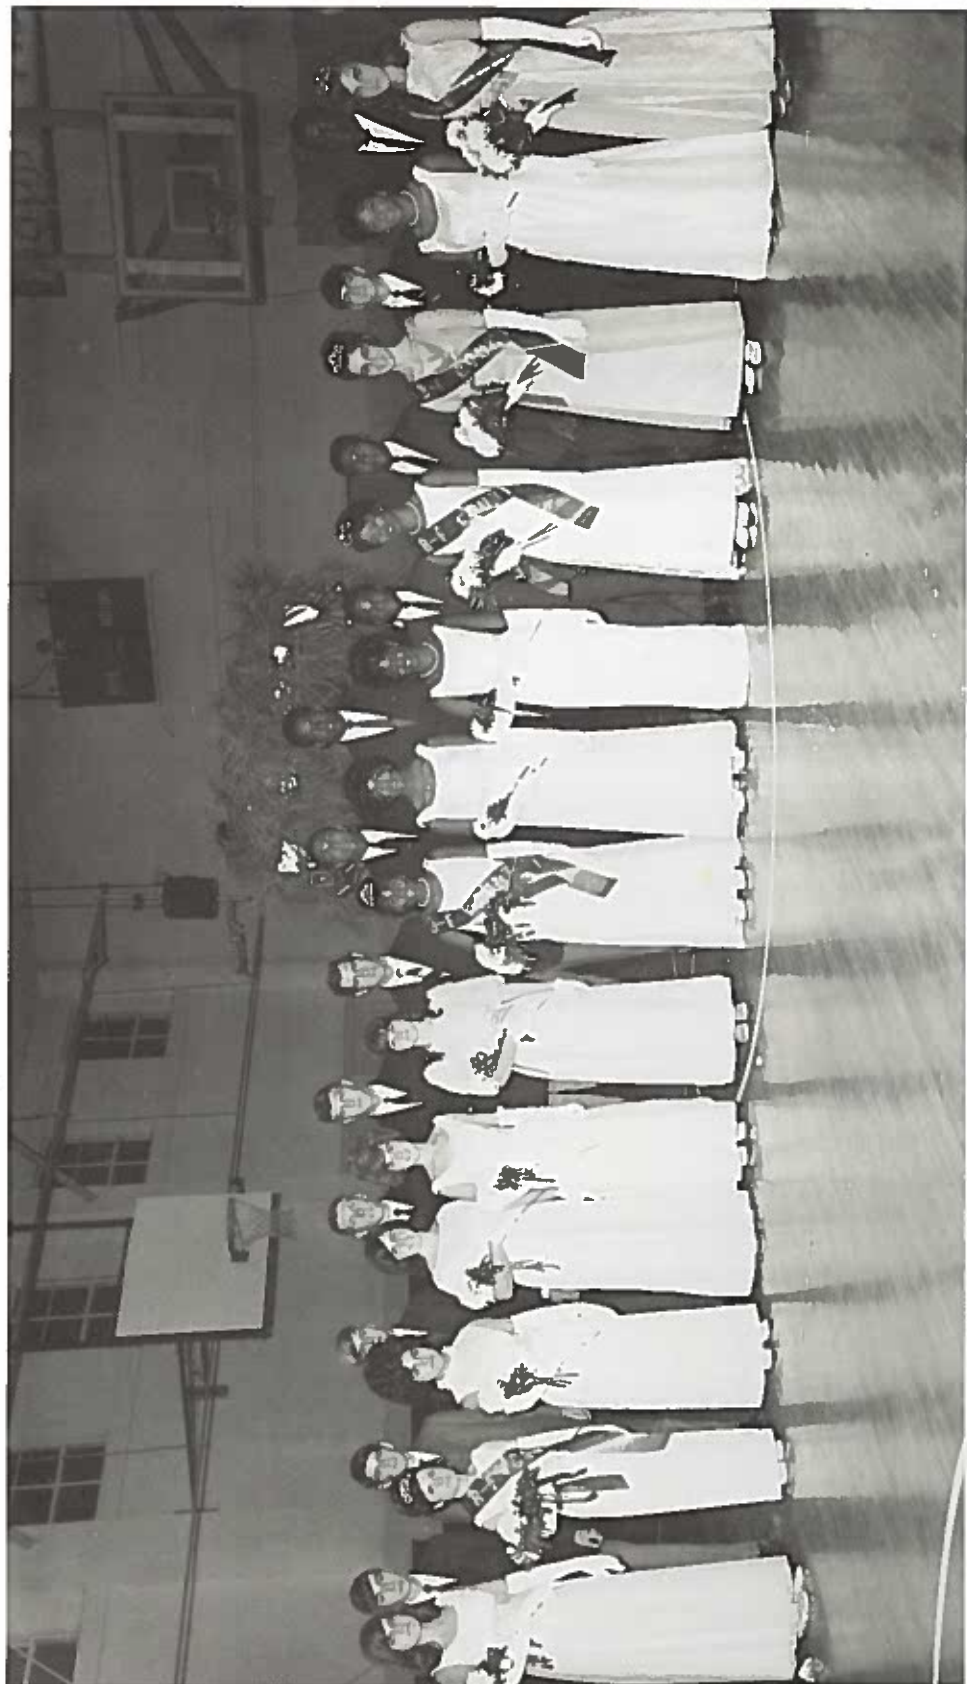

1968-69 Homecoming Queen, Miss Judy Scott, center, and 1969-70 Homecoming Queens Miss Vicky Clark, Miss Maggie Edwards, Miss Brenda Letchworth, Miss Linda Teel, Miss Sherry Pollard.

The subject of Homecoming activities for the 1969-70 school year was one of great concern. At the beginning of the year, we had the understanding that there would be no homecoming activities this year. However, in late November, the senior class and the S.C.A. banded together in an effort to get the activities reinstated. After a petition and a conference with Mr. Burke, the final plans for homecoming were drawn up.

There were thirteen candidates for the full court, five black and eight white. The black students chose their own representatives and the whites nominated candidates in each homeroom.

The finalists had to consist of three white and two black queens. The students voted by secret ballot and the five queens received their crowns during the homecoming activities on Friday evening, December 12, 1969.

Candidates and escorts included Miss Rhonda Peaden and Mr. Lenny Peaden; Miss Brenda Letchworth and Mr. Ray Briley; Miss Peggy Lynch and Mr. Clifton Jones; Miss Myrtle Nichols and Mr. J.W. Wooten; Miss Sue Lewis and Mr. Eddie Morris; Miss Brenda Moore and Mr. Jimmy Harris; Miss Maggie Edwards and Mr. Herbert Wright; Miss Bernadine Jordan and Mr. William Shiver; Miss Brenda Williams and Mr. Gregory Sharpe; Miss Linda Teel and Mr. Johnny Woreley; Miss Sherry Pollard and Mr. Marvin Jones; Miss Geraldine Weldon and Mr. Billy Perkins; Miss Vicky Clark and Mr. Donnie Everette.

In Appreciation

We, the students of Belvoir-Falkland High School wish to take this opportunity to express our respect and gratitude to Mr. Horace Lawrence, who has shown great interest in this school and its students. During his three and one-half year stay with us, he has molded a spectacular boys' basketball team. He has worked hard, but his time, patience, and efforts have well been compensated. We appreciate his fine endeavors and we thank him for his help in giving us a basketball team that we can be proud of. We hope that he may be further rewarded by sharing a championship with Mr. "Butch" Ricks, our new coach.

Mr. and Miss Eagle

It is finally finished—the greatest annual that Belvoir-Falkland has ever had. As members of the annual staff look back at the many hours of work in preparation of 1969–1970 Eagle we recall the two people who have unselfishly devoted their time and energies toward its completion. As co-editors of the annual they have not only done their jobs efficiently, but have also willingly done the tasks that other members have neglected. Because of their contributions and efforts toward our last annual, we, the members of the annual staff, have selected Erlene Corbett and Donald Fleming as Mr. and Miss Eagle.

Who's Who

Candy Pollard and Curtis Cash have been selected by our senior class to escort us in our graduation activities. Candy was also chosen this year by the cheerleaders to serve as their mascot. Curtis was selected because he is anything but shy. Candy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Pollard of the Belvoir community. Curtis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cash of Greenville, We, the seniors, are proud to receive our diplomas along with Candy and Curtis. We only hope their senior year will be as fulfilling as ours has been for us.

"Smile and the whole world smiles with you" has been the motto of Tyresia Pollard as she has uplifted the spirit of her classmates during our high school years. Tyresia has been an active member of the girls' basketball team for the past four years. She is the typist for the Annual Staff, business manager for the Paper Staff, and was a marshal her junior year. We shall always remember her for making sunshine in shady places!

Who's the Leonardo de Vinci of the senior class? Why, none other than Bernice Allen. Our school has been brightened up by the many posters he has drawn for the Pep Club, Student Council, and Library Club. As a senior, Bernice serves as Copy Editor of the annual and Committee Chairman of the Pep Club. His outstanding principles of honesty, straightforwardness, and understanding have won him many friends. We shall always remember Bernice as the guy who stood up for what he thought was right.

Deborah Warren has been very active in the Future Homemakers of America for the four years she has been in high school. She served as pianist in the ninth and tenth grades, as vice-president in the eleventh grade, and now serves as president. She also played basketball her first three years of high school, and was a marshal in the eleventh grade. We shall always remember Deborah as the girl who wheeled the 327 Camaro.

"This meeting will now come to order," are the words often heard from Michael Cobb. Mike is the president of the senior class as well as an active participant in school activities. He has played baseball for the past four years and received the most valuable player award his junior year. Mike has been a member of the Monogram Club for four years and has been an active member in the Student Council's functions. We shall always remember the guy who said what he meant and meant what he said.

"A friend in need is a friend indeed." How can we help but think of Lois Hamill when we hear that statement? Lois is a girl with an outstanding personality and very friendly ways. All of us have had our days brightened by her smile somewhere along the way. Not only does she have a winning personality but she has intelligence to match. She has been a member of the Beta Club for two years, and she serves as secretary this year. As a sophomore she received the French award, was an active cheerleader, and was a candidate in Homecoming. We will always remember her as one whose personality was tops.

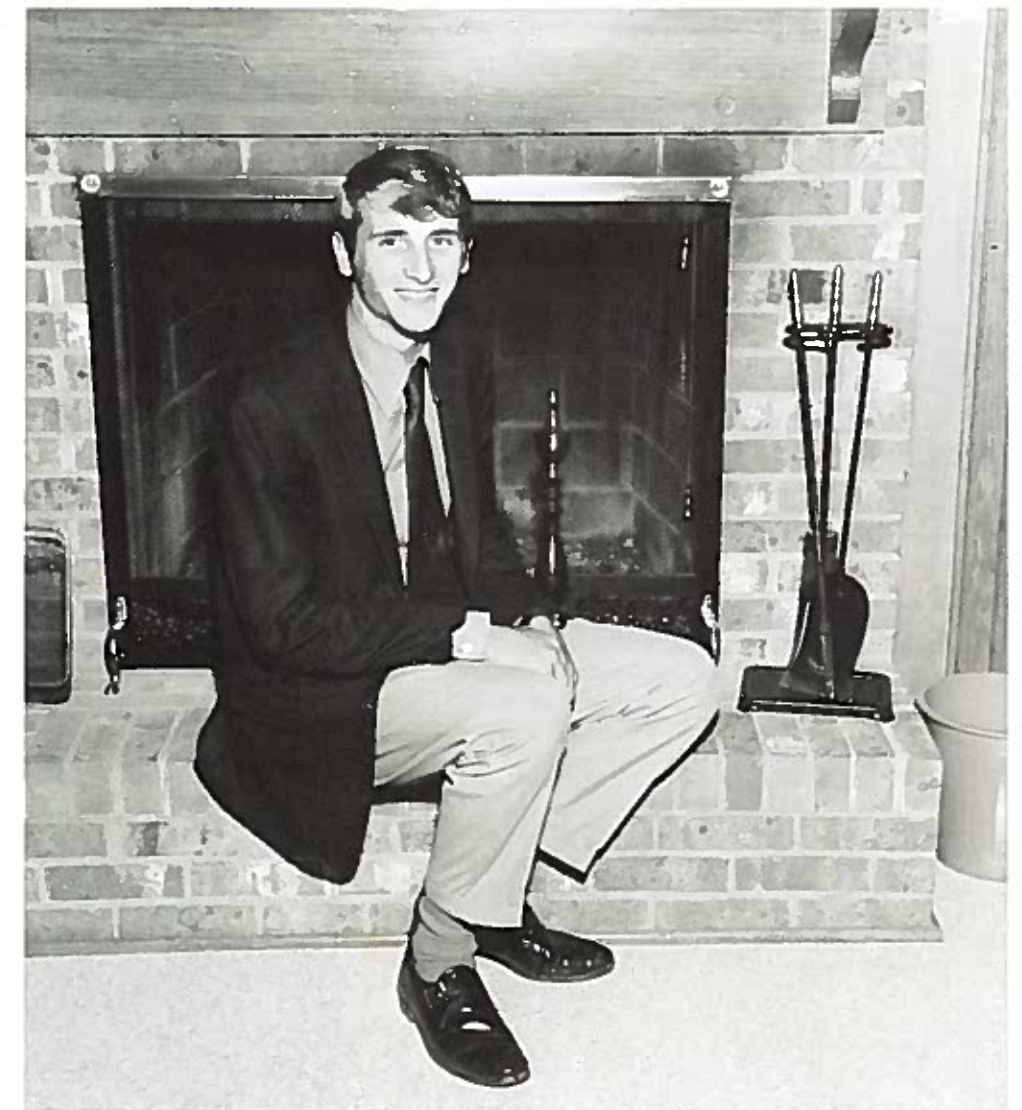

"Brains" has often been the name given to Lenny Peadar. Lenny has upheld this name by being president of this year's Beta Club. As Senior Editor of the Annual Staff, Lenny has worked diligently for the preparation of the Eagle. He has been a member of the Student Council for two years, Paper Staff for one year, and Library Club for three years. By boosting school spirit, Lenny received the honor of being chosen Mr. School Spirit during his junior year. We shall always remember Lenny for his sweet personality and being the "brains" of our outfit.

Chief Marshal, Miss Eagle, and co-editor of the Eagle are only a few honors received by Erline Corbett. Erline is one of the most active students at Belvoir-Falkland High School, by being chosen vice-president of the Beta Club her senior year, editor of the Paper Staff her senior year, and being a candidate in Homecoming activities her first two years of high school. She has won many friends during her stay at Belvoir-Falkland. We shall always remember Erline as Donald's girl.

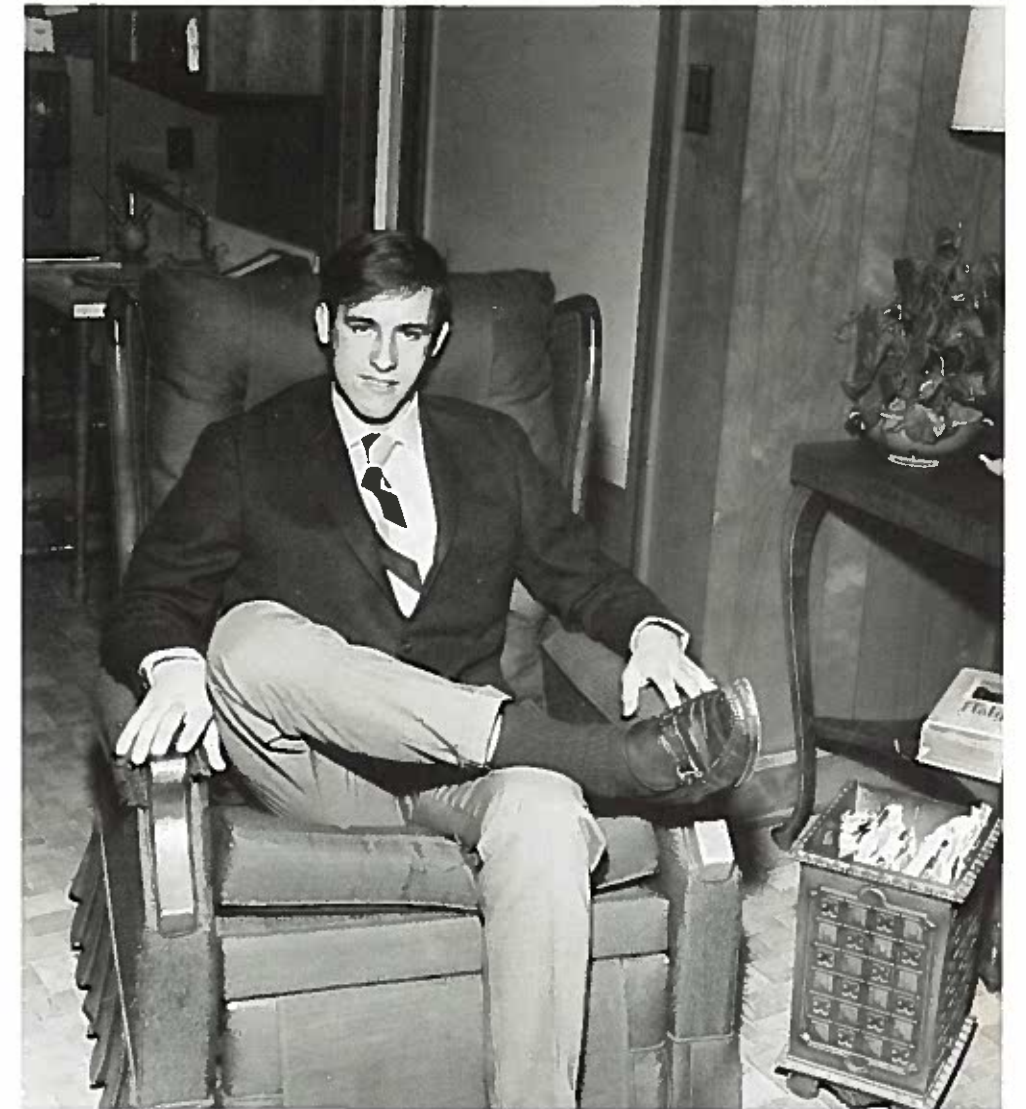

"Let's have a little order please" is a phrase we have heard so many times from Donald Fleming. Donald was vice-president of the Student Council his junior year and president of the organization this year. He has also done an excellent job as co-editor of the Eagle this year. He has been an active member, not only in our school funtions, but was the treasurer of the Northeastern District of the State Library Club Association. Donald has also been chosen Mr. Eagle this year. We will always remember Donald as "Mr. President."

Seeing Joan Leggett with her mouth open at the ballgames is nothing unusual, for she received the honor of Miss School Spirit during her junior year. Her boisterous personality will always be remembered by her classmates. Joan takes a great interest in her school activities, which are numerous. She holds the office of Business Manager of the Annual Staff, which she has fulfilled to its fullest. Also she displayed her ability to play basketball in the ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades. Joan's motto is "work comes before play", and that is why she received the great honor of being a marshal last year. We shall always remember Joan's friendly smile and outstanding personality.

Swave, debonair, handsome and humorous are all adjectives which best describe Jimmy Harris. There is never a dull moment when Jimmy is around. His humor has brightened each class and turned a boring lecture into endless laughter. Jimmy really knows how to get the news in headlines for he was the reporter of the F.F.A. his freshman year, the reporter of the Pep Club this year, reporter of 11-B his junior year, and Sports Editor of the Paper Staff and of the Eagle. We will always remember Jimmy as the "man on the scene"!

Class Prophecy

October 1, 1980

Dear Jack,

Well, I have finally finished my survey of my classmates of the class of '70. I am very surprised at what I have found, and I am sure you will also be surprised.

Many of my classmates have fallen victims to the vows of marriage. As everyone expected, Erline Corbett is the mother of five and wife of Falkland's famous fire chief, Donald Fleming. Brenda Moore is the wife of Jimmy Harris, co-star of Harris and Tyner's Comedy Hour. Pattie Murray has become the loyal and passionate wife of a successful architect. After being married for ten years, Joan Cannon is now the mother of quintuplets and, last but not least, Deborah Warren is an "ordinary millionaire housewife."

In the field of education my class contributed several outstanding personnel. Mary Ann Cobb is the librarian of the Falkland University Library. Lois Hamill is a business professor at Falkland University and Joan Leggett is an English professor at Belvoir University.

Some of my classmates even went as far as to go into politics. Patricia Fleming is the mayor of the "illustrious city" of Belvoir. Of course you know Lenny Peaden is President of the United States. As usual his private secretary is still Deborah Tyson.

A lot of my classmates went into the business world. On the entertainment side Timmy Tyner is co-star of Harris and Tyner's Comedy Hour. Linda Teel is the new addition to the Supremes. Lynda Gaynor is a go-go girl at the Falkland American Legion. And how about this? Susan Harris is the stand-in for Raquel Welch!

On the real business side of business Lawrence Hedgepeth is the president of Falkland Fords. Adaire Hoyle is the owner and operator of the Falkland Little Mint. Debra Moore is the beautician at the Falkland Beauty Salon. Tommy "Jesse" Jones is manager of Jesse Jones sausage. Billy Peaden has become president of Peaden's Grills Consolidated.

"Sexy" Ava Jones is a barmaid at Oscar's Snack Bar. William Proctor keeps the local population happy by being the distiller of Falkland Moonshine. Big Johnny Roberson is the owner operator of Sam and Dave's Bar. J.W. Brown has a tough job as manager of J.W. Brown's Allstars. Connie Newton is having a great time as editor of Playboy. Finally Sherry Pollard is Phyllis Diller's hairdresser.

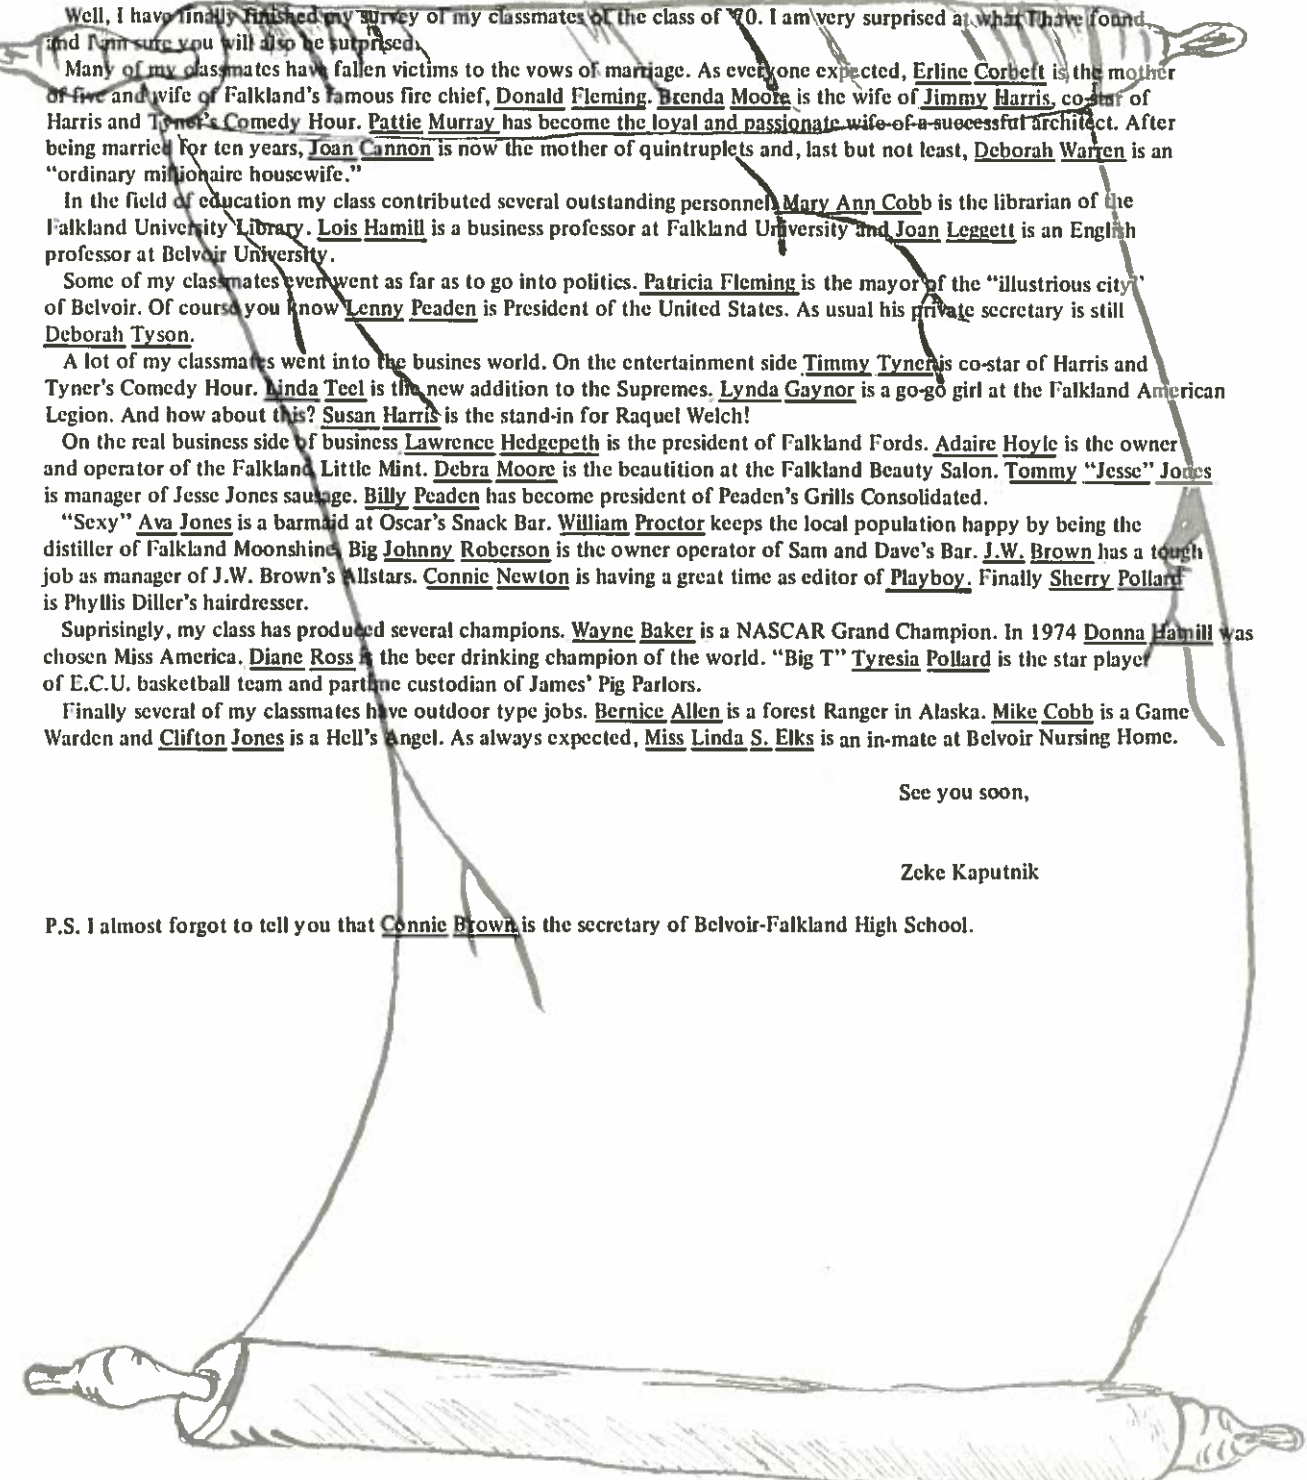

Suprisingly, my class has produced several champions. Wayne Baker is a NASCAR Grand Champion. In 1974 Donna Hamill was chosen Miss America. Diane Ross is the beer drinking champion of the world. "Big T" Tyresia Pollard is the star player of E.C.U. basketball team and part-time custodian of James' Pig Parlors.

Finally several of my classmates have outdoor type jobs. Bernice Allen is a forest Ranger in Alaska. Mike Cobb is a Game Warden and Clifton Jones is a Hell's Angel. As always expected, Miss Linda S. Elks is an in-mate at Belvoir Nursing Home.

See you soon,

Zeke Kaputnik

P.S. I almost forgot to tell you that Connie Brown is the secretary of Belvoir-Falkland High School.

Last Will and Testament

We, the final Senior class of the Belvoir-Falkland High School being of sound body and mind, do hereby bequeath the following articles to the following personnel.

Class History

Our Class now looks back on its past and smiles and frowns at the things we see. We can all remember the day we entered grammar school—that first day when we were taken away from our mothers for a whole day and met a whole classroom full of little people just like us. As time passed we grew older and advanced in our education. We advanced toward the bridges that would mold our lives. Then the big day came. We were freshmen in high school. We were now in the bigtime, looking for the day we would become sophomores. As sophomores we were looking to the Junior-Senior and being a Junior. As juniors we looked forward to PSAT'S and the Junior-Senior. Soon after the Junior-Senior came the day we were no longer Juniors; we were seniors. As Seniors we had all the privileges that a senior class could have at Belvoir! As Seniors we looked for one thing only,—graduation. When that day comes, we shall be what we want to be—graduated students from Belvoir-Falkland High School. As we leave Belvoir-Falkland we shall leave a part of our lives, but we will also take a part of Belvoir-Falkland with us—a part in our memories we shall never forget.

Class Poem

Crossing the Bridges Of Life

We cross many bridges,
During our life.
Some are trimmed with joy;
A few with strife.
Obstacles are bountiful,
But bridges are few.
To achieve our goal,
A path we must hew.
We have a choice,
Of two bridges to cross:
One leads to prosperity,
The other toward loss.
Education and personality
Will keep you abreast—
With these steps covered
You've no problems with the rest.

In Appreciation

As the Eagle comes to a close, we, the Eagle staff and Seniors, wish to express our appreciation to those who have made it possible for us to have come to school for the past twelve years. These persons are the parents of each senior. We, the seniors, deeply appreciate the love and care that our parents have given to us. Words alone can not tell the amount of sacrifices made by these wonderful people. How can we thank our mothers and fathers for their love? With love.

Bear Annual Staff . . .

To say what I really feel at this moment is indeed a task; yet, somehow I must try to convey my feelings to you. There have been times of frustrations—times when I wanted to throw up both hands and quit—but something made me go on. Thinking back now, I believe that something was you.

You have given me perhaps the greatest honor I shall ever receive by dedicating your yearbook to me. It seems improper somehow that after all the work you have done, I should reap the blessings of your labors. Yet, on the other hand, this factor makes the dedication more wonderful because you have given me the greatest gift anyone could ever receive—a portion of yourselves. Thank you from the deepest depths of my heart. You are certainly worthy of all the efforts I have made to get you this far along that last bridge of high school life. I trust that I have helped in some way to make your future mountains a little easier to climb.

You people—my annual staff—are very special to me. You have become much more than just other students, more papers to grade, and more grades to average. You have become my friends. Working as closely with you as I have, I have grown to know you quite well, and in learning with you and about you, I have grown quite fond of you. We seem like one big happy family somehow, working together, making and correcting errors, and sharing our achievements and disappointments. You have given me an insight into life and an understanding of young people that I shall never lose. The memories I have of our get-togethers I shall cherish forever.

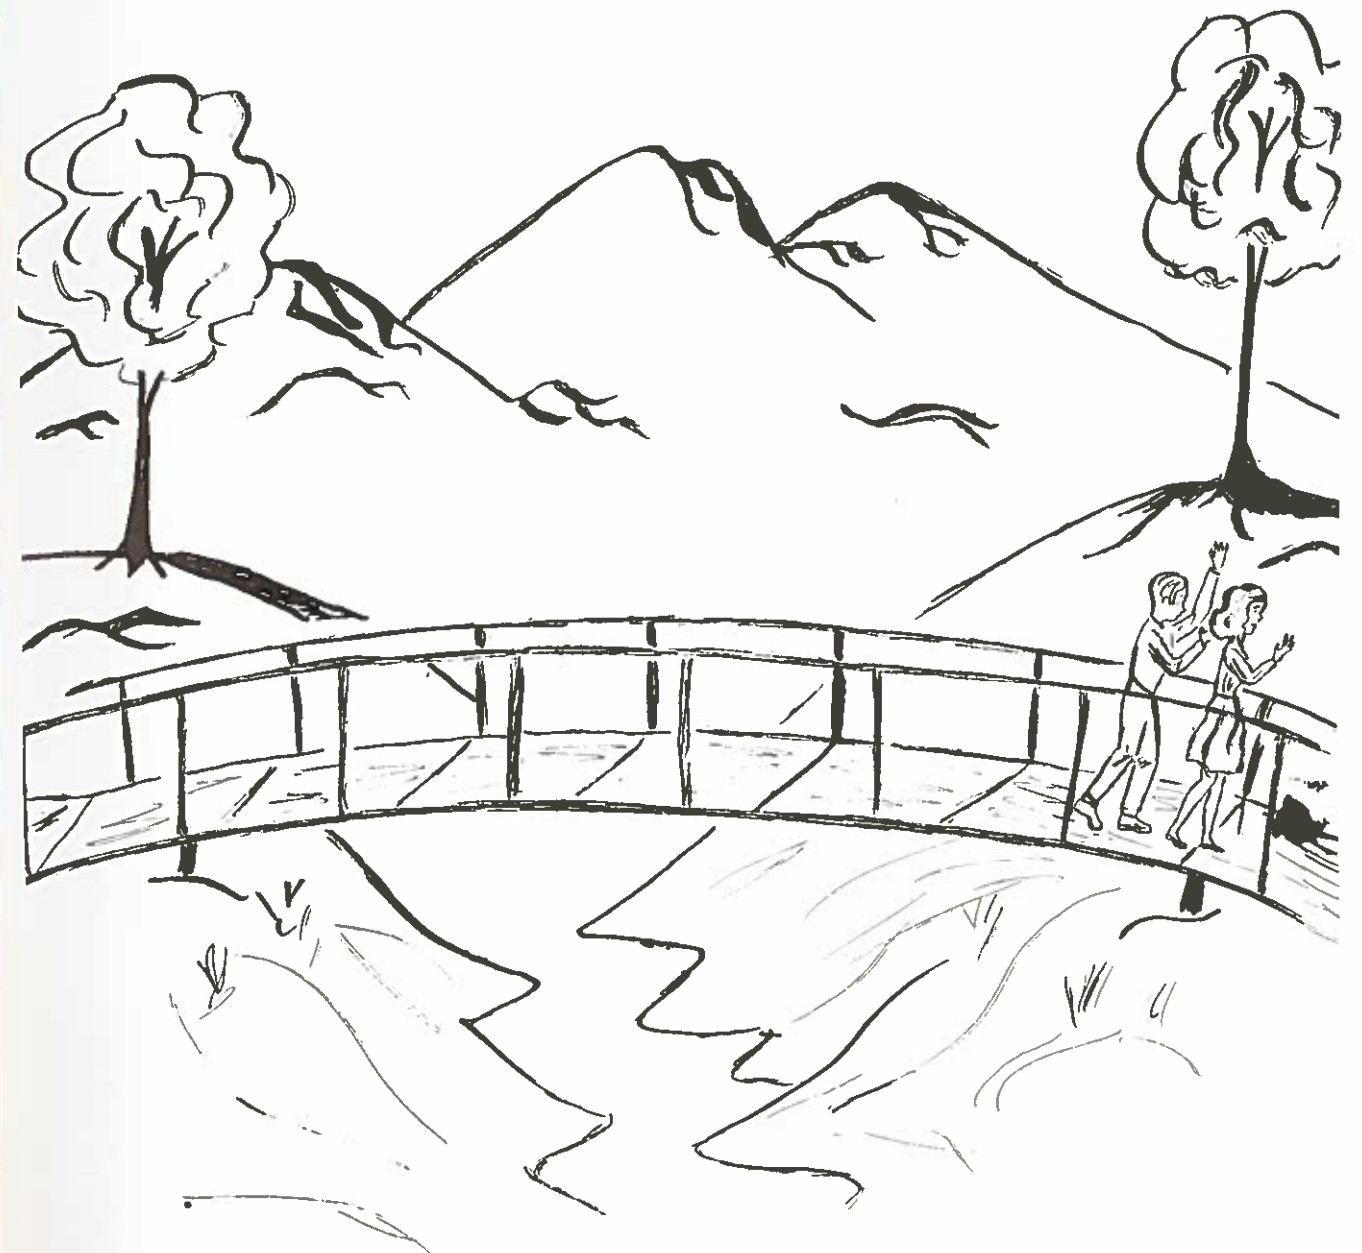

You, young people, are the leaders of tomorrow's world. Soon the leaders of today will pass down the rule books, the gavels, the test tubes, and the classroom lecturns to you. Personally, I can think of no better hands in which to place the world than yours. You will be the greatest generation the world has ever known. You have so much to learn from the past and so much more to achieve in the future. With the determination and devotion you have given to this yearbook, you can surely add to the making of a better universe. The world is at your fingertips. Mold it into a world that you can be proud of—a world of friendship, love, and peace. You can do it. You have to.

Someone once said that little things make our lives more bearable—more valuable. The little things you have done for me—the smiles, the pats on the back, the encouragement, the kind words, the thank-yous, the requests for advice, the patience, the understanding and the honor of having your annual dedicated to me—have become big things in my life. When all is said and done, it is not really the things, but the people who make our lives what they are. It is being with and working with young people like you that has created sunshine in what otherwise might have been a drab and wearing existence.— you have made my life a pleasure. Thank you for making my life worth living—worth looking for that ray of sunshine among all the dark clouds.

Love and best wishes,

Linda S. Elks

This, the final Eagle, has come to a conclusion. We have spent endless hours of labor and sacrifice to bring this Eagle to you. In presenting it, we hope that this Eagle will bring back memories of the final year of Belvoir-Falkland High School to each one who looks into its dedicated pages. We wish that each person who beholds this Eagle will enjoy its contents as much as we have enjoyed assembling this great masterpiece.
